

A Picture Story

By 3C Chloe Tong

Last Sunday, Andy and his family went hiking in the countryside. The sky was clear and blue. The weather was warm and sunny. It was a comfortable day.

The view was very beautiful. Flowers bloomed everywhere and there were a lot of trees and grass. Andy often stopped to look for birds and animals so he was far behind his parents. Suddenly, he spotted a nest in the tree. 'Oh! There is a nest over there! I wonder what's in it,' exclaimed Andy. 'Aha! I have a good idea. I'll climb up the tree and see whether there are any eggs in it.'

Andy curiously and carefully climbed up the tree. Suddenly, a mother crow appeared out of nowhere and attacked Andy's head! 'Help! Help!' yelled Andy. He was very scared.

Andy's parents heard his cries and ran towards him to help him. His father scared the mother crow away. Andy shivered with fear after being scared by the mother crow. Therefore, his mother comforted him.

Andy regretted for his mischief. He learnt that he should respect the animals. Forests and the countryside provide habitats for numerous animals and plants. Visitors should not disturb the animals or damage the plants.
